Speaking about bargain sales: Some people seem to have the idea that there is nothing in them. That it is mere advertising dodge. That is not the case, at least, in this city. We know it to be a fact that A. Hans & Son and Gove in their recent sales sold lots of goods at great bargains-less than manufacturer's cost-the ladies know it too. Mr. Worley informs us that every item advertised in his coming White Goods Sale is new-bought for the sale, and every one is an actual bargain When you think the matter over you must admit that our home merchants, being solld, reliable business men-here every day in the year to back their assertionscannot afford to run "mere advertising dodges." They do not do it. Houses away from home, run by men you do not know, may and probably do "hand you false dope" about their merchandise. Therefore it seems to us that if you favor Montgomery merchants with you business your will get the best that is to be had at honest great bargains.

Death of Mrs. Bethel

Mrs. Mary E. Bethel was born in Virginia, July 21, 1828. She was a daughter of Simon and Marsha Harvey and died in Montgomery at her residence, Feb. 7, 1908. She came to Missouri in 1838 and settled near where Mineola now is. She was married to Stephen Best on Oct. 16, 1844. He was a brother of the late John Best. He died in 1853. On Sept. 5, 1856 she was married to Edwin D. Bethel, who died in August 1893. She settled in Montgomery in 1867 and lived in the same house nearly all the time until her death. She united with the Christian church in her early womanhood. She has been a member of the Montgomery Ohristian church for many years. She was an earnest, quiet Christian woman and was beloved by all her friends and neighbors. Her mether was married twice, the second time to Thomas H. Britt, from this union three children were born, Thos. H. > New Girl Felt Herself Unequal to Elaborate Ceremony.

The young wife was perhaps the most punctilious housekeeper in the greater city. She fairly lived for the annihilation of dust particles, and her three maids knew a degree of discipline more rigid than that of Gen. Blucher. One day her waitress departed, an exceedingly common occurrence in even a flawless establishment. A new maid came to take her place. After an elaborate inquisition, the new servant was engaged on probation. The young wife explained: "Come to the dining room with me. You will have a rehearsal. I want to see you spread the table for a dinner for four. Now go into the pantry, where you will find my table china on indexed shelves. My forks are all labeled and I shall sit here. Now you serve me-of course with blank plates. I am having oyster cocktails, soup,

The new maid groped through the weird ceremony, and the foodless feast proceeded amid silence. Finally the maid whimpered:

"I guess I am going. I couldn't do this every night." She fied.

HAD TO MAKE THE SACRIFICE. Question of Job or Mustache and the Latter Went.

A man whose chief claim to good looks was a luxurious brown mustache not long ago applied for a place in a wholesale dry goods house. He came well recommended and the manager was willing to employ him. "Before settling the matter, however," said the manager, "I wish to speak a few words on a very personal subject. I refer to your mustache. If you accept this position you will have to keep that shaved off. One of your chief duties will be to dictate letters. Our stenographers claim that a heavy mustache like yours prevents clear speech and that the difficulty in understanding is responsible for their making many mistakes. Once before a man with a mustache like yours held this job. Upon the united request of the stenographers he had to cut it off.

I must ask you to do the same thing." The man eyed his crowning glory regretfully, but as he needed the job worse than he did the mustache he be-

FOUND A CURE FOR INSOMNIA.

One Sufferer Testifies That Deep Breathing Helped Him.

"I have been troubled with insomnia all my life," remarked the nervous man, "and like most people similarly afflicted I have tried all the familiar dodges to induce sleep. The results were never particularly satisfactory in the way of producing the desired effect until one night I thought I had actually found a sleep-inducer when chanced to grasp one of the rods at the head of my bed with both hands and practically hung the weight of my body on them. That sent me to sleep and it did the same thing for a few times, when to my extreme disappointment, I found it had ceased to work. I was as badly off as recently, until one night, when I had a bad cough, as well as an attack of sleeplessness. I tried the well-known remedy of trying to send myself off into the land of nod by taking long deep breaths. What it did to me, and has done several times since, was not to only send me to sleep, but to stop my cough. Just why it did so is not of much consequence. That it did so is the thing that concerns me most."

Edison to Mark Twain.

Thomas A. Edison paid a very pretty compliment to Mark Twain at a dinner of the Engineers' club to Andrew Carnegie. Using his place card as a memorandum page, and writing with lead pencil in the small round letters characteristic of his hand, Mr. Edison inscribed a sentiment and handed the card idly over to his neighbor, L. A. Martin. It read:

"An American loves his family. If he has any love left over for some other person he generally selects Mark Twain."—Syracuse Herald.
